

Course Correction 'Looks Good'

...Astronauts Fire Brief Rocket Burst

Space Center, Houston (AP) — Three harried American astronauts rocketed back on a true course for home Wednesday, blasting out of a perilous orbit that would have missed the earth and left them stranded in space.

In a radio exchange, Mission Control told Apollo 13, "You're in the corridor." But it added that another minor midcourse maneuver might be slated later in the flight.

Voices of James A. Lovell Jr., Fred W. Haise Jr. and John L. Swigert Jr. brightened perceptibly after the burn.

Lovell, taking note that the experts in Mission Control would have to track the spacecraft through the night to place the course accurately, said, "I guess you thought you were going to get to sleep through this watch. Sorry about that."

It was an in-flight rescue by the rocket engine in the moon lander's descent stage which on its third try did the trick.

Looked Good

The firing looked good from the start.

"Thrust looks good," said Mission Control. The space veteran Lovell, flight commander and world record holder for most hours in space was at the controls. His two rookie crewmates concentrated on the instruments.

The rocket firing came with Apollo 13 so badly off course that without correction it would miss Earth by 104 miles, its three pilots lost forever.

The burst of power had a braking effect on the Apollo 13, aimed to make its angle to Earth steeper.

The burn came at 10:32 p.m. CST. At that point Apollo 13 was still some 175,000 miles from Earth.

Before he took the controls, Lovell told Mission Control: "I hope the guys in the back room have thought this up right."

Besides the descent engine in the lunar lander, the astronauts also have at their disposal the ascent engine and the small thrusters on both craft used to control position. All could be used for course corrections.

The hours before the rocket firing were punctuated with trouble. First there was a flashing battery alarm indicating that one of six batteries in the lunar lander was overheating. It turned out to be a false alarm.

Then the other overall-clad astronaut complained — as Lovell had earlier — about the cold. In the power-off command ship which serves as little more than a bedroom at present, it was getting very cold.

The command ship was powered up briefly so that Mission Control could read by radio the various working systems. They even read off temperature measurements in the quiescent ship and everything looked normal.

Much of Wednesday was concerned with readying the ship for the rocket firing. Mission Control spent heavy effort diagnosing the flight path and trying to insure that this third course correction would work well.

Two previous rocket burns to set an accurate course had failed. One, coming shortly after the oxygen tank exploded Monday night aborting the mission, fired for one second too long. The other, coming Tuesday night, also failed. Mission Control, trying to save electrical power aboard the spacecraft, had decided to do the four minute burn without updating the lunar lander's guidance system. Experts guessed that guidance errors might have reduced the accuracy of the rocket firing.

In a flight where one emergency yields to another, systems are being used in ways that were never intended and for which they were not designed.

For instance, the life system of the moon lander, handling the greater volume of air in both spacecraft, proved unequal to the task and carbon dioxide began to build up in the atmosphere. Mission Control ordered the astronauts to rig up a makeshift air-cleaning device using their space suit hoses, plastic bags and tape and lithium hydroxide canisters from the command ship.

This "shade tree engineering," as the astronauts called it, worked and Wednesday's carbon dioxide level was way down.

FATALLY SHOT STEPSON . . .

McBride Acquitted Of Murder Charge

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

A Lancaster District Court jury, after 18 hours of deliberation, acquitted Robert J. McBride of first-degree murder in connection with the Oct. 28, 1969, fatal shooting of his stepson, Ernest Eugene Beaman.

McBride, 51, after calmly awaiting the jury's verdict, showed no emotion when the "not guilty" verdict was read.

He told The Star that he appreciated what the jury had done and "I had faith in them and my lawyer."

Hyman Polsky, court-appointed counsel for the defendant, said he was "delighted and pleased."

"I believe justice was done in this case. There is more information that could not be brought out at the trial that would further justify the decision of the jury," Polsky said.

He commended the jury saying they did a "magnificent job."

Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas had no comment.

After the verdict was read, Judge Elmer Scheele dismissed the jury of eight women and four men from further service for the remainder of the two-week jury term.

He said the jury had brought in a "not guilty" verdict and that he had "no choice but to find you not guilty and discharge you in this matter" he told McBride.

McBride, who had entered three innocent pleas to the charge including one under Nebraska's new self-defense law, testified that after he and Beaman had argued he didn't "figure I would shoot him but thought I'd bluff him" with the rifle.

He told the jurors that when Beaman turned "to come at me with the shovel . . . I yanked the rifle up and fired at him."

An unsigned written confession of McBride admitted into evidence quoted McBride as telling interrogators, ". . . Ain't no use lying, I got nothing to lie about. I done it and that's it. You can only take so much. . ."

According to the statement, McBride and Beaman were partners in the hog-raising business and had gone to Fremont that morning to sell hogs and that on the way home McBride and Beaman argued over the $2,000 received for the sale of the hogs.

Officers testifying for the state told the jury that McBride told them at the scene of the shooting that he was afraid Beaman was going to hit him with the shovel he was leaning on and so he shot him.

McBride testified from the stand that on the trip back from Fremont, Beaman had "backhanded him" and called him names and made fun of him.

Several members of the deceased's family including his mother, son, daughter and brother testified that Beaman had a "bad reputation" for fighting and violence.

The testimony of Beaman's son who had lived with the McBrides since he was five months old brought tears to the eyes of some jurors.

Melvin LeRoy Beaman told the jury he had no respect for his father "because of the way he treated Mr. and Mrs. McBride who were good enough to raise the son he did not want or have need for until I was old enough to work for him."

GOP Leader Goes After Democrat Douglas

Washington (AP) — House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford asserted Wednesday that Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas may be unfit to remain on the court because of questionable outside activities, including controversial writings and possible associations with underworld figures.

In a wide-ranging attack on the 71-year-old justice, Ford told the House he supports creation of a select congressional committee to study Douglas's activities and determine what cause there might be for impeachment. But the GOP leader stopped short of flatly demanding removal of Douglas, a Democrat.

"What we should scrutinize in sitting judges is their continuing pattern of action, their behavior," the Michigan Republican said. "The Constitution does not demand that it be exemplary or perfect. But it does have to be good."

Liberals Assail Ford

A group of 41 liberal House Democrats assailed Ford's resolution for appointment of a special select committee. They said in a statement that if Ford wanted to proceed against Douglas he should have prepared a bill of impeachment which would have gone to the Judiciary Committee, rather than the resolution which would go to the Rules Committee.

The Democrats said the opinions of Ford and his associates in this matter differ markedly from those of Douglas in areas of civil rights, civil liberties and the rights of the poor and the young, implying these differences are the real reason for the attack.

They called the proposed action "an attack on the integrity and independence of the United States Supreme Court" and asserted that it was precipitated by the recent Senate rejections of two Supreme Court nominees named by President Nixon.

Conflict Of Interest Alleged

On two occasions, Ford said, Douglas had been on the dissenting minority side when the Supreme Court ruled against magazine publisher Ralph Ginzburg and that while the second case was before a federal court, in March, 1969, on its way to the Supreme Court, one of Ginzburg's magazines, "Avant Garde," paid Douglas $350 for an article on folk singing.

Ginzburg, in a statement issued Wednesday, said he hopes Ford's speech would be met "with the contempt it deserves. It is ironic that with all the corruption in government today, Ford and his ilk should be picking on the one pure soul who stands as a shining example of everything noble and lofty of American life."

Ford attacked also Douglas's most recent book, "Points of Rebellion," declaring "its thesis is that violence may be justified and perhaps only revolutionary overthrow of the establishment can save the country."

'Less Than Good Behavior'

"I concede that William O. Douglas has a right to write and publish what he pleases, but I suggest that for Associate Justice Douglas to put his name to such an inflammatory volume as 'Points of Rebellion' at a critical time in our history when peace and order is what we need, is less than judicial good behavior," Ford said.

Ford noted also that an excerpt from the book is published in the April issue of Evergreen magazine, which he said contains examples of hard-core pornography.

Douglas, in a statement issued at the Supreme Court, said, "Under the publishing contract Random House has sole and exclusive rights for post-publication of excerpts from 'Points of Rebellion.' I have no control over it, know nothing about it and I have nothing to do with the Evergreen Review matter."

Douglas said he would grant no interviews on any aspect of the controversy.

Associations With Parvin

Ford's lengthiest attack, however, was directed at Douglas's associations with Albert Parvin and possible dealings with a cast of underworld figures.

Until recently Parvin was head of the Los Angeles-based Parvin-Dohrmann Co., a hotel and hospital furniture supplier.

Parvin was hired in 1946 by mobster Bugsy Siegel to decorate Siegel's new Las Vegas hotel-casino operation, the Flamingo.

Several years later, according to Ford, Parvin turned up, as a part owner of the Flamingo with another underworld figure, William Israel (Ice Pick Willie) Alderman.

Advice

In 1960, Parvin decided to sell the Flamingo and turned to gangster, Meyer Lansky for advice on possible buyers. Lansky introduced Parvin to a trio of Miami hotelmen who eventually bought the hotel. For his services, Parvin and the other owners of the Flamingo paid Lansky $200,000.

Parvin used his share of the proceeds to help finance the Albert Parvin Foundation, which he has said Douglas helped set up. Douglas later became a director and president of the organization at an annual salary of $12,000.

The justice resigned from the foundation last year and has denied any knowledge of Lansky's involvement.

Twins Are Nice, But Isn't This Just Ridiculous?

Richmond, Va. (AP) — "Good God, not again!"

This was the reaction when a 29-year-old Richmond man was told by doctors that his wife, Patty, had just delivered her third set of twins.

"I am stunned," said Donald J. Gibson, a department store employee whose family already includes twin 16-month-old boys and a 4-year-old boy and girl combination.

The latest twins are healthy girls.

The Gibson's pediatrician said three consecutive sets of twins is a medical rarity.

Another Gibson comment: "No more babies."

Teamsters Strikes In Other Cities Affecting Local Trucking Operations

Teamsters Union strikes in other cities have caused some Lincoln truck lines to shut down operations and lay off drivers and warehouse help.

United-Buckingham Freight Lines and Holmes Freight Lines both reported they have suspended all operations and sent workers home until further notice.

The Santa Fe Trail Transportation Co., while still operating, reported business was off as much as one-half. One driver had been laid off.

Not Affected

A spokesman for Darling

Transfer Inc. told The Star his company was working and had experienced a sharp influx of business in recent weeks. Darling ships cargo through Kansas City, which is not affected by the strike.

The other firms have routings through Chicago, hardest hit of the striking cities, and report nothing coming in or going out of the terminals.

A representative of a Lincoln department store said the strike has not had an effect on his business yet. He said the company had known the strike was coming for some time and had bought larger than normal amounts of merchandise from the manufacturers.

Problem: Fashions

The only problem, he said, was in fashions. The rapid change could be affected by the strike. "If we can't sell them, people won't be wearing them," he said.

A wholesale drug supplier in Lincoln said they were experiencing some problems in getting shipments from the East. If the situation becomes any worse it could be a minor disaster for the company, he said.

Two local food suppliers reported that they had no problem in receiving all merchandise ordered.

Denunciation Eyed

Washington (UPI) — The Civil Rights Commission probably will formally denounce the "pitiful . . . unprecedented" Justice Department efforts to modify school desegregation decrees, a commission official said.

CART OFFICERS NAMED . . .

Cary Heads Group Seeking Tax Relief

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The Committee for Action on Rural and Urban Taxation (CART) elected Jack Cary of Kearney as state chairman at a third organizational meeting held Wednesday in Lincoln.

Other state officers chosen were Don DeGroff of Atkinson, vice chairman; Bob Mettenbrink of Grand Island, treasurer, and Ed McClure of Blue Springs, secretary.

Cary, who had been temporary chairman of the newly formed organization, is also Buffalo County chairman of the state group.

35 Persons Attend

Thirty-five persons from nine counties — Sherman, Gage, Johnson, Valley, Richardson, Garfield, Holt, Rock and Hall — attended the two-hour session.

However, Cary said at least nine other counties are in the process of organizing for affiliation with the new state organization.

"CART is nonpolitical and not affiliated with any civic or farm organization," according to Cary. "Tax relief and tax relief only is our goal."

One County, One Vote

The committee on voting recommended that each member county organization have one vote on the state organization.

However, several representatives protested a "one county-one vote" formula would not produce equal representation on either a population or assessed valuation basis.

Cary suggested that the state organization go along with the committee recommendation until additional counties affiliate with the state group.

The CART executive committee adopted no policy statement at the Lincoln meeting, but indicated formulation of policy would be taken after more counties are organized.

However, a policy committee recommended that each county chairman or representative contact his local state senator regarding his views on replacing the local property taxes with an income tax.

Investigation Urged

The committee also urged that 1969 legislation giving the state tax commissioner "unlimited power" over county assessors be investigated.

"Unless we're ready with some type of legislation for the 1971 sessions," a committee spokesman said, "the state tax commissioner will take over the county assessors."

At an earlier Grand Island meeting, the embryonic organization discussed such issues as limiting the length of legislative sessions and the number of bills, revising property appraisal legislation, and valuing of income property by its income-producing ability rather than market or sale price.

Methods For Cutting Down Feedlot Runoff Are Outlined

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

Positive approaches which feedlot operators could implement at a minimal cost to cut down the pollution of water from agricultural runoff were outlined Wednesday at a meeting of the Salt Valley Watershed District board of directors.

Dr. T. M. McCalla, a professor of agronomy at the University of Nebraska, told watershed directors that "we are onto several methods to manage the runoff."

The methods, McCalla said, are being tested on four experimental feedlot operations "and have proved satisfying."

The methods for cutting down the runoff, which he said does create a pollution problem, include:

- Installing a settling area ahead of a retention structure.
- Installing broad bench terraces following a slope.
- Creating mounds in a feedlot to increase the decomposition of nitrogen and carbon compounds.

Also a microbiologist with the Soil and Water Conservation Research Division of the Agricultural Research Service, USDA, Mr. McCalla said the methods used on the experimental lots can retain half of the runoff.

He added that he believes the methods may likely be developed to the point of "zero runoff and zero cleanoff." "This is our goal," he said.

The experimental operations are located near Mead, Gretna, Central City and Omaha.

McCalla remarked that the methods are less expensive to the feedlot operator than the hauling away of the manure.

The NU professor said that at one experimental feedlot, work is being done to eliminate the odors in the handling of the wastes.

"I think this problem can be licked," he predicted.

Watershed directors also voted unanimously to name Henry J. Amen a director emeritus in recognition of his lifelong work in the field of flood control.

Amen, 92, has decided not to run for re-election as a watershed director, a position he has held since the formation of the district 10 years ago. He had originally filed but later asked that his name be removed from the ballot.

The removal of his name from the ballot narrows the contest to five candidates seeking the four positions which require residence in Lincoln.

Those running for the positions are incumbents Paul Amen, Dr. Henry Cech and Tom Sweeney and challengers Ted Chessler and Wes Furrer.

Henry Amen had served 18 consecutive years as chairman of the board of trustees of Sanitary District 1, the forerunner to the present watershed district. Amen will continue to sit in on the watershed district board at directors meetings.

YM OFFERS GARDEN PLOTS

Family gardening in individual plots near Holmes Lake dam, sponsored by the YMCA, will begin Monday evening with a meeting of the potential gardeners at the site.

The YMCA is taking reservations for the 40 1/2-acre plots available for gardening between April 20 and Nov. 1.

Families using the plots pay a small fee for water and some equipment provided at the site.

Each family decides what will be planted in the garden and is responsible for all care of the crops that is required.

Some of the families who had YMCA garden plots last year won blue ribbons at the Nebraska State Fair for their entries, according to YMCA executive director Bill Schenk.

The first meeting of the gardeners will be at 6 p.m., south of Normal Blvd. in the 6200 block.

Nixon Plans Bill To Block Great Lakes Dumping

The New York Times
Washington — In a message to Congress Wednesday, President Nixon said he would soon propose legislation to prohibit the Army Corps of Engineers and private industry from dumping polluted dredgings into the Great Lakes.

The President said further that he had directed Russell E. Train, chairman of the Council on Environmental Quality, to conduct a study on the dumping of solid wastes into the oceans. Nixon said that the proposed ban on disposal of polluted dredge waste into the Great Lakes would take effect as soon as on-shore disposal sites for the waste had been selected by the Corps of Engineers and state and local governments had made the sites available. After this program, the President said, priority would be given to the 35 "most polluted" harbors on the Great Lakes. He estimated the cost of constructing the disposal sites for the 35 harbors at $70 million, of which the federal government would provide half, and state and local governments the other half.

progress in attaining disposal sites.
Most harbor and channel dredging in navigable waters is done by the Army Corps of Engineers. It has been the corps' practice to dispose the dredgings in designated areas offshore.

Nixon Signs Bill Hiking Federal Workers' Pay 6%

Washington (AP) — President Nixon signed Wednesday legislation granting a 6% across-the-board pay increase to all civilian salaried employees of the federal government, including postal workers.
For civil service workers and employees of the Post Office Department the pay boost will be retroactive to Dec. 27.

A comparable increase is provided for military personnel retroactive to Jan. 1. The military pay hike will apply to a uniformed man's total compensation, including fringe benefits, which make it equivalent to a boost of 8.1% in basic pay.

Under the new law, roughly 6% pay increases also are accorded to employees of the legislative and judicial branches and U.S. attorneys.
The cost of the pay boost over a full year is expected to be $2.6 billion, for 5.3 million employees.

Nixon indicated that the federal government would pay the $5 million estimated to be additional annual cost of transporting the dredge material.
The President has also inserted a warning in his bill. He said that the secretary of the Army would be required to suspend the dredging of harbors after one year "if local interests were not making reasonable

Sheppard's Death Officially Said Due To Natural Causes

Columbus, Ohio (UPI) — Franklin County Coroner Robert Evans said Wednesday an official autopsy report showed Dr. Sam Sheppard died of natural causes brought on by liver failure.
"Dr. Sheppard died of natural causes brought on by pathological transformation of the liver, or fatty metamorphosis of the liver," Evans said.
Evans said there was no sign Sheppard had cancer or had taken large doses of drugs before his death April 6. Evans had delayed the official autopsy report pending results of chemical tests.

Sheppard was convicted of murdering his first wife, Marilyn, in their Bay Village, Ohio, home on the shore of Lake Erie July 4, 1954. He served 10 years in prison and then was acquitted at a second trial, ordered by the U.S. Supreme Court.
Sheppard was found dead in the home here of Mr. and Mrs. George Strickland, whose daughter, Colleen, 20, he had married last October, after being divorced by his German-born second wife, Ariane Tebenjohans.

Few Peace Rallies End With Violence

By United Press International
Antiwar protesters across the nation rallied peacefully Wednesday to protest use of tax dollars to finance the war in Vietnam, but splinter groups in several cities set fires, smashed windows and battled with police.

An estimated 75,000 cheerful young persons jammed Boston Common for a "Not So Silent" spring rally in the largest gathering of the day.

By evening, however, a contingent of 6,000 youths crashed through Harvard Square in Cambridge, Mass., where they were met by 1,000 club-swinging police who used at least three canisters of tear gas.

Many Injured
The crowd set fire to trash barrels and a subway station and hurled rocks through windows in what one policeman described as "an all-out confrontation." Eight police were hospitalized and dozens of youths were injured. At least one person was arrested.

On the University of California campus in Berkeley, student radicals threw bottles and painted balloons at police who used tear gas to scatter the crowd.

In Washington, nine youths were arrested and at least one was injured after a window-breaking, stone-throwing incident at a Navy recruiting office.

Cycles Tipped Over
The crowd tipped over police motorcycles, some with police still aboard. One youth was knocked unconscious by a police club and at least nine were arrested.

A crowd of 300 youths in Detroit threw bottles and bricks at police after a peace rally dispersed. The youths smashed downtown store windows and battered cars. At least 15 were arrested.

In Chicago, three persons were arrested during a demonstration in front of the Playboy Mansion on the city's Near North Side. There was no violence.

At Pennsylvania State University, police evicted 150 war protesters from the administration building and arrested 27. As police tried to load the youths into buses, sympathizers swarmed over the vehicles, breaking windows and enabling some demonstrators to escape. Officers led the youths through double police lines to other buses.

Medals turned In
In San Francisco, 50 men who said they were veterans of the Vietnam war turned in 154 medals, placing them on a coffin covered with black cloth, and Rep. George Brown, D-Calif., said he would try to return them to President Nixon.

Five demonstrators were arrested at the Cleveland, Ohio, Convention Center — four for disorderly conduct and one 16-year-old girl for desecration of the American flag — when a crowd of 500 demonstrated against the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. for aiding the war effort.

Protests in most cities were ebulliently noisy, but peaceful, smacking of spring outings.

Demonstrators staged symbolic "Boston Tea Parties" on the bank of the East River in New York City and on a bridge across the Des Moines River in Des Moines, Iowa. The Iowa protesters tossed tea into the water. The New Yorkers dumped tax forms.

Jane Urges Resistance
Actress Jane Fonda climbed aboard a flatbed truck in front of the Federal Building in Denver, Colo., and shouted to 400 cheering protesters to resist the draft and "stop giving your bodies for cannon fodder."

In Washington, about 400 demonstrators gathered outside the locked Internal Revenue Service headquarters, beneath an engraved inscription that said "Taxes Are What We Pay for a Civilized Society."

They waved placards that

Regis Eyed For UNO Continuing Education Center
Omaha (AP)—A plan was under way Wednesday to convert the former Regis Hotel in downtown Omaha into a center for continuing education at the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

William T. Utley, dean of the College of Continuing Education, said Wednesday the university is interested in moving its conference center to the hotel if it can be remodeled and turned over to UNO without cost.

The Regis was used by the Omaha Women's Job Corps until May of last year. Since then, efforts have been under way to raise private money so the hotel could be donated to the university. The cost was estimated at $1.4 million.

Utley said the hotel could be converted into a multipurpose building to be used for conferences, workshop and university programs.

A crowd of 3,000 — much smaller than last fall's protest groups — demonstrated in Detroit's Kennedy Square, tying up rush-hour traffic. Two demonstrators climbed a war memorial and waved the North Vietnamese flag and the black flag of anarchy.

Burbach Scores Exon For Attack On Resources Plan

State Sen. Jules Burbach, Democratic candidate for governor, Wednesday said primary opponent J. J. Exon is "attempting to use conservation of Nebraska's natural resources as a political football."

Exon, he said, "hasn't the slightest conception of what he is talking about. He is saying that the natural resources district bill passed by the last Legislature is bad and that it provides for a two-mill levy."

"What he does not say is that the bill does not become law until 1972, if at all, after another session of the Legislature."

Retiring Teacher Will Be Honored

Columbus — Open house will be held Sunday, April 26, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Emerson School here to honor Mae Menn, who will be retiring at the end of this school year. Former pupils and friends are invited to attend.

A special program will be presented from 3:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.

"He is also not saying that even if the bill does become law, it could replace in some areas up to 8½ mills which now can be levied for conservation."

Burbach said that on Aug. 25, 1969, he personally attached an amendment to the bill, supported by a vote of 34-0, to delay the effective date of the act until 1972 in order to get "grassroots involvement" in the question.

"What Mr. Exon is saying is that he doesn't want the people to state whether or not they want this bill.

"I have 28 hearings of an interim study committee scheduled this year and I personally invite Mr. Exon to testify at any or all of these hearings if he has some valid comments on this proposal."

Suburbia Has Its Mind On Fun

MISS RONNI SUE LOOKER

Of interest to Lincoln this morning is the announcement made by Dr. and Mrs. James H. Looker of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ronni Sue, to Gilles M. L. Verboom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Verboom of Paris, France.

The wedding is planned for Sunday, June 14, and the ceremony will be solemnized at St. Thomas Aquinas Church.

Miss Looker is a sophomore at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis.

Mr. Verboom is a graduate of the University of Toulouse, Toulouse, France, and now is continuing his studies at the University of Minnesota.

NU Dames

The NU Dames will meet Thursday evening at the Methodist Student Center, 640 No. 16th St. Highlighting the 7:30 o'clock meeting will be a Red Cross instruction program.

In a very appealing book for the young—and the young-at-heart—author and poet, Joan Walsh Anglund observes that "Spring is a new beginning . . ." The validity of this statement is presently everywhere—parent as warm-weather activities—picnicking, traveling, yardwork, and so on — once again — and soon, we hope — will occupy a primary position in the thoughts of Lincoln's suburban dwellers.

But spring is more than a mere beginning. It also is a continuation — of the "busy-ness" that perpetually accompanies suburban residents; and a prediction—of the fun that is sure to come during the months ahead.

Looking into the past for a few moments, Saturday evening, April 4, was a very busy — and, we might add, enjoyable — time for Kimballcrest residents Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Burns and children, Gary, Christie and Lorie.

On that particular evening the Burns family hosted six guests at a cook-out which took place at their home. On hand for the festivities were Mrs. Burns' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Thimman and son, Gregory; and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Nickeson and daughter, Stephanie. Following the picnic, the parents enjoyed an evening of cards.

Some very good news from the Meadow Lane home of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Fischer concerns the most recent addition to their family. The young man to whom we are referring, is Master Todd Marshall Fischer, and he is the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Fischer's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Fischer who make their home in Edina, Minn.

Young Todd made his world debut on Sunday, April 5, and waiting anxiously to welcome him home were his two "big" sisters, Cheryl, 6, and Marcia, 3. Completing his family circle are Todd's very proud maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Marshall of Hopkins, Minn.

Incidentally, we should also mention the fact that Mrs. Fischer is currently visiting with her son and daughter-in-law in Edina where she is undoubtedly becoming very well acquainted with her new grandson.

An evening of bridge will be on Saturday evening's agenda for a group of out-of-town guests who will be entertained at the Park Manor home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lamb. Participating in the evening's festivities, which will be highlighted by a spaghetti supper, will be Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Seinhorn and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Carrier all of whom reside in Bellevue.

Hoping for a bit of co-operation from the weatherman this weekend are Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Hutchinson and daughters, Sandra, Carrie and Elizabeth, who are making plans for a trip to Iowa. Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson and the girls will leave Lincoln on Friday, and their destination will be Shenandoah, Iowa, where they will be guests at the home of Mr. Hutchinson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hutchinson.

On Sunday, the Lincoln travelers will be among those in attendance at an open house which will honor the Gerald Hutchinsons on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Other family members who will take part in the festivities, which will be held at the honorees' home, will be Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hutchinson's sons and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Hutchinson and children, Carol, Michael and Jody of Shenandoah, and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hutchinson and son, Scott, of Des Moines; and son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Giltner and children, Sherri and Bob, of Glenwood, Iowa.

Planning Committee For June Reunion

It has been 25 years since the "Class of '45" attended Lincoln High School, but annual reunions since that time have been keeping the classmates in touch. This year will be no exception, when the class holds its reunion the weekend of June 27, at the Lincoln Hotel.

Seven members of the committee which is planning the summer reunion, met at the home of their chairman, Dan Hergert, Jr., for a work session last week. They are attempting to contact all members of the class of 1945, even those who had entered the service and did not graduate that June.

Shown hard at work with

AROUND TOWN

Homecomers are in the news again this morning — This time they are Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Talbot who arrived home late Monday evening after a two months holiday in Hawaii — in California, and in Arizona.

The greater portion of their time away from home Mr. and Mrs. Talbot spent in Honolulu where their son-in-law and daughter, Capt. William Ludwick, USN, and Mrs. Ludwick now are stationed. The stay in Hawaii turned out to be something of a family affair since Dr. and Mrs. Emerson Ward of Rochester, Minn. — also a son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Talbot — and their two sons, Robert and Mark, flew to Hawaii to spend spring vacation. Dr. and Mrs. Ward and their sons, however, devoted most of their time to the outer islands.

Upon their return to the Mainland Mr. and Mrs. Talbot stopped in Pasadena, Calif., for a visit with Mrs. Talbot's sister, Mrs.

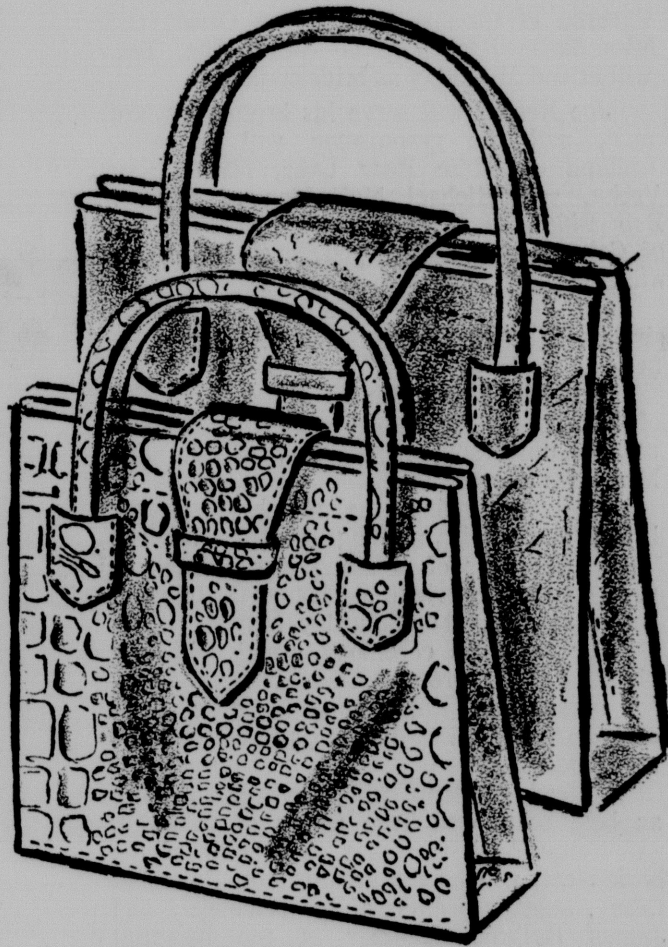

Voyle Rector, and from there they went on to Tempe, Ariz., where they had a brief visit with their grandson, George Steiner, who is attending the University of Arizona at Tempe.

Yesterday we also mentioned parties, and this morning we discovered that next week's calendar includes a festive event for Tuesday evening.

The party is a dinner dance for the members of the Fifty-Fifty Club who will do their dining and dancing at the Elks Club. The party planners, who have chosen "Spring Fiesta" as a theme, include Mr. and Mrs. Noel Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stout, co-chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Edwards, Dr. and Mrs. William Hervert, Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rodwell and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sagness.

it's different

Bubbles, bubbles everywhere — and they make sense when they appear in a special yeast bread deliciously endowed with California seedless raisins. The bubbles of dough are sugar coated and made for pulling off by guests or family at the breakfast or brunch table.

Orange juice and peel are notably inviting accents in the dough that give the bread a special tang to complement those sweet accents from California raisins. After the first rising, the dough takes on its bubble character when you separate it into small balls. Dip them in butter and roll them in an orange-sugar coating and layer them in a tube pan for baking to fragrant perfection.

The attractive appearance of this yeast bread makes an appealing addition for morning serving. Perfect accompaniments for this early morning charmer are eggs and juice of your choice. You'll agree it is a good start for the day!

A Casserole That Defies Boredom

It's not easy to combine a full-time job with full-time homemaking. But the women of today are an amazing generation. They are doing it, and quite successfully, too. How else can families keep up with the high food prices and rapid increases in living costs that are afflicting us all?

Efficient homemaker-working women know that the secret to the success of their dual function is smart food buying and organized meal planning, with an eye to menu variety to eliminate meal boredom. That's why pork has become so popular.

Pork, available in so many deliciously flavored tender cuts, is a good meat buy in today's market. Pork chops, in particular, in a choice of loin, rib, or shoulder cuts, are particularly appealing in planning entrees that can cook in less than an hour on busy nights. Look for chops that are lean, but well-marbled with fat, fine grained, greyish-pink in color, and with a "special" price tag.

Pork Chop Casserole with

Apple Rice is a simple-to-prepare entree that'll please the hungriest family any night of the week. A flameproof casserole is a convenient utensil to have among your busy-day cooking equipment, so that entrees like this can be cooked and served all in one pan.

The chops are simply browned quickly to give them a rich delectable color; then they are attractively arranged over a flavorful mixture of diced apple and chicken-flavored rice and set in a 350° oven to bake. Pork of course, should be thoroughly cooked, not only to make it safe, but to bring out its fullest flavor. About 45 minutes will be sufficient to cook loin chops of 1/2- to 3/4-inch thickness — this will give you just enough time to "recoup." Five-minute cook frozen broccoli spears and tomato slices are quick colorful vegetable selections to round out the menu. Sound ideal? It is.

PORK CHOP CASSEROLE WITH APPLE RICE

- 8 loin pork chops, 1/2 to 3/4 inch thick (about 2 1/2 pounds)
- Salt and pepper
- 1 tablespoon shortening
- 1 package (7 oz.) chicken-flavored rice mix
- 1 medium cooking apple, peeled and diced (about 1 cup)
- 1 3/4 cups water
- 2 tablespoons butter

Trim excess fat from pork chops; season with salt and pepper. Brown quickly in shortening in a large skillet. Drain with absorbent paper. Combine rice mix and contents of seasoning packet, apple, and water in a lightly greased shallow 2-quart casserole. Mix well to moisten all rice. Dot with butter. Arrange pork chops on top of rice mixture. Cover and bake at 350° for about 45 minutes, or until chops are tender and well done. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Note: If a flameproof casserole is available, brown chops in the casserole; then continue as directed.

And It's Just What The Doctor Ordered

A doctor who'd rather cook than work in the yard during his spare time put his culinary talents to work and won third prize in a nationwide recipe search sponsored by the makers of Royal Gelatins, Puddings and Pie Fillings. To Dr. T. C. Donald of Anniston, Ala., goes the credit for this intriguing Chicken Royal, baked chicken pieces sauced with a sweet-sour mixture prepared with packaged lemon flavor pie filling.

The doctor specializes in preparing main courses for dinner — rather than desserts. That's why he transformed a packaged dessert mix into an ingredient in a main dish. And with great success. To the lemon pie filling he added orange juice, molasses, soy sauce and ginger which produces an Oriental-like flavor and appetizing amber color. Created from items commonly in the kitchen cabinet, Chicken Royal is inexpensive and easy to prepare.

CHICKEN ROYAL

- 3 chickens, cut up (about 2 pounds each)
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
- 2 cups orange juice

- 1 package lemon pie filling
- 3/4 cup water
- 1 tablespoon dark molasses
- 2 teaspoons soy sauce
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
- Parsley

Arrange chicken, skin side down, in large baking pan (12x15x1 1/4 inches). Brush generously with melted Blue Bonnet Margarine. Broil about 6 inches from heat for 7 minutes. Turn chicken and baste with remaining Blue Bonnet Margarine. Broil about minutes longer. Pour 1 cup orange juice over chicken. Reduce oven to 350 degrees F. and bake chicken 35 minutes or until tender. Baste occasionally.

Meanwhile, in medium saucepan combine Royal Lemon Pie Filling, 1 cup orange juice, water, molasses, soy sauce, lemon juice, salt and ginger. Cook over medium high heat, stirring steadily until mixture starts to boil. Break flavor capsule if undissolved; stir into filling.

When chicken is done, remove to serving platter. Gradually blend drippings into lemon sauce. Serve over chicken. Garnish with parsley. Makes 8 servings.

Hell Surely Hath No Fury Like Sen. Margaret Chase Smith Misrepresented

Washington (AP) — Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned. Or misrepresented, maybe.

The Senate's only woman, Republican Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, made that plain Wednesday with release of letters she has exchanged in the past two days with presidential counselor Bryce N. Harlow.

Mrs. Smith's release of the letters was the latest escalation of her minifed with Harlow over who said what to whom, when and how, about how Mrs. Smith planned to vote last Wednesday on the Supreme Court nomination of G. Harrold Carswell.

Mrs. Smith, in keeping with her woman's right not to say what she was going to do, got upset when she found out Harlow had telephoned senators to say she would vote for Carswell.

Shen then voted against him, although it's never been clear how much Harlow's calls had to do with it. Mrs. Smith isn't saying.

Anyway, Harlow said he got it from "Mrs. Smith's office." Everybody in Mrs. Smith's office says he didn't.

Mrs. Smith demanded an apology last week.

A Harlow aide apologized.

Then Harlow went on television Friday and said he still thought the word came from "Mrs. Smith's office."

That did it, as far as the taciturn Mrs. Smith was concerned.

She rose in the Senate Monday to demand again an apology. She accused Harlow of impugning "the integrity and veracity of my office."

"I am shocked at the repeated irresponsibility of Mr. Harlow," So Harlow wrote another letter Tuesday.

"Dear Margaret," he said. "Your speech asserts that none of your staff leaked the information that you would support Judge Carswell.

"I of course will not contest that — couldn't if I wished to, wouldn't if I could. So I humbly confess error as directed, and contritely apologize as requested, for disseminating information your staff disavows.

"We have been friends, best I can recollect, for 23 years, since my staff days on the House Armed Services Committee. I am dismayed that such an episode as this could so badly fray a relationship that I have greatly prized."

Despite the "as directed" and "as requested" and the reminder of 23 years gone by, Mrs. Smith apparently was satisfied with the letter. until White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler got into the act.

Ziegler told newsmen Tuesday that Harlow was standing by his earlier statement.

Bill Lewis, an aide to Mrs. Smith, hastened to the Senate press gallery to tell reporters there that there seemed to be "an ambiguity and a conflict" between the letter and the Ziegler statement.

So, said Lewis, unless the "ambiguity" was cleared up Mrs. Smith might be forced to release Harlow's letter which, according to Lewis, she was loathe to do.

The upshot was that she released Harlow's letter and her own reply.

"Dear Mr. Harlow," she wrote, "Thank you for your letter of apology and for your retraction of your televised statement about my office. Sincerely yours, Margaret Smith."

"Does that end it?" Lewis was asked.

"Depends on the White House," he said.

Remember how good the kitchen smelled when your mother baked Brown Betty?

She'd make it right from scratch by cutting up her own fruit.

Making her own crunch topping out of cinnamon and brown sugar and other good things.

And then baking it in the oven for all you kids to eat.

Well now Thank You brand is bringing it back in a new ready-to-bake form.

We call it Zip Quick Apple Crisp.
(Or Cherry or Blueberry or Peach Crisp as the case may be.)
And all you do is empty the fruit into a deep dish.
Sprinkle on the sugary, crumbly topping.
And bake (30 minutes is about all it takes).
There are no other ingredients to add.
And what comes out is a juicy, crunchy, positively toothsome dessert that many people like even better than pie.
Look for it in the baking section of your store.
It'll make you feel like a kid again.

Largest Population Increase In Decade Predicted For Nebraska

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

The largest population increase for the past decade has been predicted for the state by the University of Nebraska Bureau of Business Research. The Bureau estimated that Nebraska's total population at the end of 1969 was 1,532,324, an increase of nearly 31,000 over the estimate published last year, bureau director E. S. Wallace announced Wednesday. The one-year gain of 2.1% "appears unrealistic" when compared with the rates of change shown by estimates of previous years, according to Wallace. However, he viewed the significant increase as actually a three-year increase, since last year's estimate showed no change from the revised estimate for 1967, and the 1967 estimate showed a slight decline from 1966.

Above Census

The 1969 estimate of total population was about 8½% above the 1960 census count of 1,411,921 Nebraskans.

Accuracy of the estimates will be known as the data obtained by the U.S. Census Bureau is released, beginning this summer, Wallace reported.

"Publication of the 1970 census figures is awaited with much interest and with some trepidation by those responsible for making intercensal estimates," he noted.

Estimates for the 1969 population were made on the basis of vital statistics supplied by counties, including births, deaths, marriages and divorces, total vote in the last general election, drivers' licenses records and school census, it was explained.

More Heavily

Drivers' licenses records and school census are weighed more heavily in the estimating process.

The 1970 census also will be analyzed to see which set of indicators and how much each should be weighted to provide better estimates in the future, Wallace said.

The bureau will have a better indicator in the 70's when information about claims for the food tax credit from state income tax becomes available.

After this year, the state will participate in a federal program designed to eliminate conflicting reports of population estimates from the various state and federal agencies.

The bureau will serve as the technical agency for the State Department of Economic Development which has been designated to announce the official estimate that will be used by all state and federal agencies, it was announced.

Bureau estimates have always been larger than U.S. Census Bureau figures, Wallace said, because the Census Bureau has relied entirely on the school census.

Urban Growth

Urban population has grown by 40% since 1960, Wallace said.

Recent estimates have shown some move outward from the central cities, he reported, citing the growth of Bellevue, Ralston and Gering.

Out-migration from the state has been substantially slowed during the past decade and particularly since 1965, he added.

Lancaster County is one of eight counties that showed a population growth of more than 10% since 1960, according to the estimates. Lincoln has shown a growth of 13.6% between 1960 and 1969, it was reported.

Positions of the 10 largest cities in Nebraska remained the same as the 1968 report, except that Columbus moved ahead of Norfolk in the ninth and tenth spots.

McCook Moves Up

McCook apparently became the 13th largest city, moving up from its 1968 position of 16th largest. Nebraska City also jumped up to 15th in size, ahead of Sidney and Alliance. Blair's estimated population put it ahead of Chadron and Holdrege in size.

None of the Nebraska cities of 10,000 or more lost population in the past decade, but nine of the smaller cities in the over-2,500 class showed declines, ranging from a 1% loss in Alliance to a 21% loss in Kimball.

Bellevue had the largest growth rate with a gain of 174%. While eight counties gained 10% or more in the 1960's, another 27 counties lost 10% or more. The losses range up to 26% in Hayes County.

Although Sarpy County more than doubled in the decade, its rate of growth appears to have slowed, Dr. Wallace said.

POSTCARD by Stan Delepland

Warm and sunny days around here. The peaceful life is hard to come by. There are so many pieces.

The house wren shouted down the hall: "I can't stand all the junk in this house. I'm going to throw it all away."

I said: "Fine. Unload it. The deep six."

She said: "I'll start in the closet. You've got entirely too many shirts you never wear."

I dashed out of the workroom and said: "Let those shirts alone. Why, I was just about to buy some more shirts."

As suburban life went on, we found we collected more and more things.

I said: "For heaven's sake you've got six beach hats. Throw away five of them."

This is a chick who cannot pass a beach hat without buying it. Jamaica. Hawaii. Nassau. Fiji. We could open a beach hat store.

Where do things come from? I said: "You've got a thousand pots and pans. How about throwing away just one? For a starter."

She said: "I might need it. You never know."

I said: "We now have five cheeseboards."

Cheeseboards come at Christmas. Somebody doesn't know what to give you, they send a cheeseboard. Businessmen buy cheeseboards by the gross. Send them to men they do business with.

"Let's have four weeks of Giveaway Cheeseboards weeks."

She said: "They would be useful if we had a big party."

One Christmas we took the best unused cheeseboard and sent it to her mother.

Apparently her mother forgot who sent it. She sent it back to us the next Christmas. It was beautifully wrapped.

The house wren kept the wrapping. She said: "I can use it next Christmas."

I said: "The back room is overflowing! Get it out of there. That's where I keep my spare clothes."

She said: "You mean the Lederhosen you bought in Frankfurt? Seven years ago and never worn them?"

Mathias Claims Civil War Debt Should Be Repaid

Washington (AP) — Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., says the federal government owes the town of Frederick, Md., $200,000 plus interest for delaying an attack on Washington, D.C., during the Civil War.

Mathias introduced a bill in the Senate to direct the United States to pay what he called this Civil War debt.

He said many historians believe Lt. Gen. Jubal Early's 24-hour stay in Frederick in 1864 allowed Gen. Ulysses S. Grant time to mass sufficient forces to stop a later Confederate assault on Washington by Gen. Early's troops.

Gen. Early had to wait that long for the city to raise the $200,000 ransom he demanded in return for not destroying the community of Frederick and some Union supplies.

Mathias said it took the town $7 years to repay the banks who loaned the money to the town.

"The federal government should repay the western Maryland community its $200,000 plus interest," he said.
